

2022 WINNER ANNOUNCED

Emilie Collyer's Do You Have Anything Less Domestic? Published by Vagabond Press is the winner of the inaugural annual Five Islands Prize for 2022.

Emilie Collyer will receive $2,500 and Vagabond Press will receive $1,000.

is is the only literary prize in Australia that acknowledges the commitment of a publisher along with the work of the winning author.

the judges have remarked in their report, 'What sets the winning book apart is its depth of effects and the frequency of astonishing, breathtaking turns, insights, and denouements... Do You Have Anything Less Domestic? demonstrates that the best personal writing illuminates a more universal experience.'

Congratulations to Emilie Collyer and Vagabond Press!

The full judges' report will be presented and Emilie Collyer will read poems from the winning book at an online event to be held at 5.00 pm, Monday 28 November:
